If the cross-cut way be next ready, it will be seen that to put the ropes right for this branch four rope ends will have to be connected, two at station (A) and two at (B). On Plane No. 2 it will be noticed that the ropes connected with the engine are those of the third west way, and here also the set is supposed to be at the shaft. All branches on Plane No. 1 are dipping inward, while those of Plane No. 2 dip towards the shaft. The branch ropes on Plane No. 2 are connected in the same way as on Plane No. 1, and here also it is necessary to connect four rope ends when the third west way has to be worked, if the second and the first west way have been worked before it. In the first west way the grade is found heavy enough to cause the outcoming full cars to pull the tail rope after them; in taking the empty set inward, the main rope is knocked off at the point (R) and the train is pulled in by the tail rope; the full set is afterwards let down the incline by the single tail rope to (R), where the main rope, which is necessary to pull the set on the knuckle, is attached. The drum man sometimes brings the train out of this branch by the brake, while the engine is working another way. The...
